RIA Spring / Summer Safety and Wellness Awareness Day featured displays on topics such as health injury prevention; severe weather preparedness; motorcycle safety; prevention of sexual harassment and assault; domestic violence prevention; Master Resiliency Training; and local Red Cross Services. First Army Conference Focuses On Strengthening Reserve Component Readiness

First Army held a conference intended to strengthen Reserve Component unit readiness here April 16-17. The Total Force Regional Support Group, Explosive Ordnance Disposal, Chemical, Military Police, and Medical Commanders Conference provided an opportunity for dialogue between First Army and Reserve Component units to develop partnerships and to set conditions for the remainder of the fiscal year and beyond. First Army, as Forces Command's designated coordinating authority for implementation of Army Total Force Policy, aims to continue developing multi-functional unit partnerships between the Active and Reserve components in conjunction with First Army partnered brigades to build and sustain readiness to support ATRF and reduce post-mobilization training days for the Reserve Component. First Army Hosts Adjutant General Summit

First Army held an Adjutant General summit April 12-13, with a goal of streamlining its human resources processes. In opening remarks to the approximately 60 attendees, First Army Commanding General, Lt. Gen. Michael S. Tucker, noted there has been a substantial reduction in personnel at the division level in the last two years. Because of this, brigade personnel now deal directly with First Army headquarters, as opposed to personnel at the division level. Therefore, the summit was intended to be an opportunity for human resources Soldiers from First Army brigades to dialogue with their First Army headquarters counterparts on topics such as human resources policies and how to improve the flow of information across the organization. Staff Sgt. Stephanie Gonzales, First Army Headquarters human resources NCOIC, said the summit met that intent. (More)

Army, Air Force Most Vulnerable In Pentagon's New Base Closure Plan

The Pentagon is renewing its controversial push to close some military bases, and a new study suggests the Army could be impacted the most significantly. The Defense Department on Friday sent a report to Congress that concludes the military's current network of installations has about 22 percent more space than is needed. It found that the Army has 33 percent excess capacity, the Air Force has 32 percent more space than it needs and the Navy is over by 7 percent. The Defense Logistics Agency has 12 percent excess, according to the 20-page report, the first of its kind in 12 years. Military Times obtained a copy of the document on Friday. "This level of excess underscores the need for a BRAC round because it is clear that the Department has more infrastructure than force structure plans require," it states. (More)

Army Approves First 22 Female Officers for Infantry, Armor Jobs

The Army announced Friday the first 22 women to be commissioned as infantry and armor officers under new rules that open all ground combat jobs to females this year. The move is a major step toward integrating women into so-called ground combat jobs, placing them in leadership roles in occupations that were never open to them. The 22 women are near completion of their officer training and will be commissioned as second lieutenants in coming weeks. They need to successfully complete the specialty schools and meet the physical requirements before fully qualifying in the fields. The military had expected only a small number of women to volunteer for the jobs, at least initially. The Marine Corps said about 200 women a year would likely join newly opened ground combat positions, including the infantry. (More)

Installation Facilities Are Suffering Under Budget Constraints, Officials Say

Tough budget decisions are forcing the services to take risks by putting off needed projects for installations, officials told senators Thursday.

About 15 percent of facilities in the Department of Defense inventory are in “failing” condition, and about 12 percent are in “poor” condition, according Pete Potochney, acting assistant secretary of defense for energy, installations and environment, testifying before the Senate Appropriations Committee’s panel on military construction, veterans affairs and related agencies. Officials "are doing the best we can in making sure dollars are spent wisely and to compete for those resources in this budget environment," he said. The Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015 caps overall defense spending. Potochney noted that "facilities degrade more slowly than readiness, and in a constrained budget environment, it is responsible to take risk in facilities first." The administration’s budget asks for $7.4 billion for military construction in fiscal 2017, a decrease of $1 billion from the fiscal 2016 request; and $9.5 billion to improve and sustain existing facilities, a decrease of about $1 billion from the fiscal 2016 request. End-Of-Year 'Use It or Lose It' Budget Mindset to Get Tossed

The Army is seeking to change the "use it or lose it mentality" as it relates to unit budgets, said Lt. Gen. Tom Spoehr. Spoehr defined that mentality as "the perception throughout the Army that if you don't spend all of your money it will be decremented from future budgets because someone thought you must not have needed all of that money -- even though it's not happening that often." As director of the Army Business Transformation Office, Spoehr is the proponent for this and other key business transformation efforts, known collectively as: "Changing Management Behavior: Every Dollar Counts." This new policy will be executed Army-wide July 1, per the memorandum "Every Dollar Counts." The memorandum was signed by acting Secretary of the Army Patrick J. Murphy, April 15. Spoehr said more guidance will follow the memo. "A unit's budget will not be decremented for the sole reason that they failed to expend their money," Spoehr said. There must be some due process for investigating the causes. (More)

Army Earth Day

Celebrated each year on April 22, Earth Day started in 1970 as a grassroots effort to create an awareness of the Earth's fragile environment, encourage environmental stewardship, and ultimately, develop environmental awareness in American society. The U.S. Army first participated in the Earth Day campaign in 1971 and commemorates the event, which evolved into a worldwide celebration, every year with activities at installations Army-wide. Each year, the U.S. Army celebrates Army Earth Day at approximately 200 Army installations, commands and organizations around the world. The Army's Earth Day theme: "Sustain the Mission • Secure the Future" reflects the dedication to protecting the environment and the lands in the Army's care so that training that enables Soldier readiness and mission success can be conducted now and into the future. Observance of Army Earth Day provides an opportunity to renew the Army's commitment to improving efficiencies in energy; reducing, repurposing, and recycling at the military installations; and addressing climate change and its risks to national security. Each year, the Army acknowledges the interdependence of the military's mission, the natural environment and the well-being of the communities. The Army will continue to engage the Soldiers in environmental stewardship and recommit to protecting the lands in its care to ensure they are available for future Soldier training, as well as providing Families a place to live, Army civilians a place to work and recreational opportunities for communities to enjoy. Equal Employment Opportunity Focus

Rock Island Arsenal Days of Remembrance

The First Army Equal Opportunity Office invites you to the Rock Island Arsenal Days of Remembrance on Tuesday, May 3, in Bldg. 60, Heritage Hall, from 1-2 p.m. The guest speaker will be Felix Weil, a Holocaust survivor and part of the Kindertransport, the informal name of a series of rescue efforts which brought thousands of refugee Jewish children to Great Britain from Nazi Germany between 1938 and 1940. At the age of 11 Weil found himself in England, still not realizing that he would never see his family again. In 1941, his parents and sister were sent to the Lodz ghetto in Poland, and his father died there. His mother and sister died later in concentration camps. In 1945, an aunt and uncle brought him to the United States, but he was drafted and sent back to Germany to serve with the occupation forces. He graduated from Kent State University and has lived in Dayton since 1950. He is now retired from the art business. He and his wife Frances have two children and a grandchild. National Days of Remembrance is observed from May 1-8 this year. During this week, we remember not only the millions of victims and survivors of the Holocaust, but also the heroes whose actions saved incalculable lives. A little more than 70 years ago, witnesses to the atrocities of Nazi-occupied Europe, were faced with the choice of stopping the persecution of their neighbors and fellow countrymen or standing by in acquiescent silence. Unfortunately, fearing for their own lives, many people opted for the latter. However, some remarkable individuals chose action over fear, courageously standing up to tyranny and hatred. Army leadership has asked the entire Army family to honor the courage of those individuals who chose to take a stand against persecution by rejecting all forms of prejudice and bigotry. Leadership has also asked us to remain vigilant against the threat of genocide and to let us honor both those who perished and those who quietly triumphed over oppression by letting our actions illustrate tolerance and respect for all people. The Army will pay tribute to the victims and survivors of the Holocaust by telling their stories in command information products at all levels.

Army installations throughout the world will also honor them through local events during the month. As an Army, we must reject all forms of prejudice, bigotry, and hatred in order to remain strong. As we mourn those who were lost and honor the survivors, we should remember the hatred and persecution that led to the atrocities that we must remain vigilant against. Arsenal workforce employees can use keyword "Holocaust" to sign up in TEDs. For additional information or accommodations please contact Sgt. First Class Jose A. Vazquez at 309-782-9761.

RIA's AER Campaign, March 14 – April 29: "Never Leave a Soldier in Need"

Over the last several years AER has made significant changes to meet the needs of today's Army, adding new categories of assistance, expediting the assistance process and increasing grants by 30 percent. Last September AER made a policy change which allows all Soldiers, regardless of rank, direct access to AER assistance. "Never Leaving a Soldier in Need is in keeping with the Army's core values," said AER's Director, retired Army Lt. Gen. Robert Foley. "Whether the need is money for a Soldier's emergency leave, new brakes for the family car or to cover the initial rent deposit on a new apartment, AER is there. To maintain this level of assistance today, donations from Soldiers, active and retired, are essential to ensure the legacy of Soldiers Helping Soldiers." April is Alcohol Awareness Month

April is Alcohol Awareness Month. Alcohol is the most commonly used drug in the United States (National Institute on Drug Abuse). Alcohol is popular, socially accepted, and legal. Yet it is the most frequent cause of individual and family pain and suffering. Alcohol Awareness Month is an opportunity to raise awareness about alcohol misuse and encourage people to make healthy, safe choices. During this month, take time to educate yourself and your loved ones about the dangers of alcohol misuse. One way to educate yourself about your own drinking is to take the anonymous alcohol use self-assessment online at www.DrinkingIQ.org. The Survey is free and can give you feedback about your drinking and if you may be at risk. If you would like to learn more about alcohol or have any questions, please call the EAP at 309-782-HELP (4357) or look for an EAP staff member at your lunch cafeteria in April.

National Prescription Take Back Day

Rock Island Arsenal will participate in National Prescription Drug Takeback Day on Wednesday, April 27, at Memorial Field Pavilion. The drop off times will be 6-8:15 a.m. and 2-4:45 p.m. We cannot accept needles, syringes, or aerosol products including inhalers. National Prescription Drug Take-Back addresses a vital public safety and public health issue. Many Americans are not aware that medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse, and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are at alarming rates, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs. Studies show that many abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet. In addition, many Americans do not know how to properly dispose of their unused medicine, often flushing them down the toilet or throwing them away – both potential safety and health hazards. The Rock Island Arsenal Army Substance Abuse Program & Employee Assistance Abuse Program coordinates this initiative bi-annually. The ASAP/EAP is dedicated to excellence in providing a standard of care that enhances the quality of life for its clients and the workforce of Rock Island Arsenal. We believe that personal, family, and workplace problems can affect an employee's well-being and job performance. The ASAP/EAP promotes healthy lifestyles. Our most important asset is our employees and we are committed to providing professional counseling, educational assistance, and intervention services in an effort to promote wellness and improve the climate of the Rock Island Arsenal. RIA EAP is located in Bldg. 56, 1st Floor, Room 104, and are open 7 a.m. – 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. To schedule an appointment call 309-782-4357 (HELP). After hour emergencies call 309-782-6116. Rock Island Arsenal Emergency Services will contact an EAP counselor who will call you back promptly.

Improving Workplace Relationships

Relationships in the workplace are very much like relationships in our personal lives. Therefore they require many of the same skills we use with those who are closest to us. Skills learned are based on research based concepts and address issues of communication, conflict, respect and trust. Upcoming class dates are May 5, June 7, and Aug. 2; and will take place in our classroom in Bldg. 56, in Room 122. You owe it to yourself to thoroughly consider your educational and career goals, needs and options in order to utilize the GI Bill in the most timely and cost-effective manner possible. Some questions to consider: • What are my career goals and how do they relate to my educational needs? • How do I choose a school that is right for me? • Will my professional field respect a degree from the school I'm considering? • How well does my chosen school support Veterans and dependents? • In addition to the GI Bill, what are other ways to finance my education? • What are grants and loans? Remember, in the military you demonstrated commitment, discipline, and a desire to succeed. As a dependent you developed strong critical-thinking and decision-making skills. Leverage those same qualities when considering the school that best provides what you need and maximizes your investment. Commissaries 'Go Green' On Earth Day, Every Day

As Earth Day rolls around the Defense Commissary Agency is working diligently to reduce its environmental footprint through recycling, food donations, and environmentally friendly products. "Seven stores have achieved 'net zero' status," said Robin Armhold, DeCA's environmental engineer. "That means through organic material disposal contracts and other means the stores have virtually no waste." And DeCA is doing much more to help stores reduce their footprints. In 2015, DeCA stores recycled almost 1,920 tons of plastic, more than 60,000 tons of cardboard and over 108 tons of paper. It has also composted or repurposed almost 6 million pounds of organic material, recycled over 5 million pounds of pallets and another 3 million pounds of things like fats, bones, kitchen grease, metal and wood. Investing In Your Benefit

The commissary surcharge – the 5 percent added to every customer's bill – is not a tax. That's just one of several facts about the surcharge that even some of the savviest commissary customers are sometimes surprised to learn. "Some people erroneously call the surcharge a tax, but this generalization is inaccurate and misses the point," said Defense Commissary Agency Historian Dr. Pete Skirbunt. "A tax could be spent on any of multiple government programs or projects with no way of telling which ones. Commissary surcharge dollars, however, may only be spent on building, modernizing and maintaining commissary facilities and store equipment." (More)

Spring Case Lot Sales Offer Maximum Savings

Military members and their families in the U.S. wanting to load up on savings only need to venture as far as their local store during the Defense Commissary Agency's spring National Case Lot Sale event. "You cannot find a better deal than our case lot events to save up to 50 percent on some items," said Tracie Russ, DeCA's director of Sales. "Many of our savvy shoppers circle their calendars for these events – they never miss the chance to stock up." Each stateside store hosts an individual two- or three-day case lot sale. Sale dates begin in some locations as early as the first week in May and in others as late as the end of June. Patrons are encouraged to check the Case Lot Sales page for schedules. Commissaries in Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico are also participating. (More)

Town Hall to Discuss Changes at Rock Island Arsenal Museum

U.S. Army Garrison, Rock Island Arsenal, will host a town hall at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, April 27, to discuss changes at the Rock Island Arsenal Museum. The event will be held in the theater in the Rock Island Arsenal Museum. The changes come as a result of Army wide changes in museums and the maintenance of artifacts. More than 3,000 artifacts will be moved from the Rock Island Arsenal Museum's collection to the Field Museum Support Facility at Anniston Army Depot, Ala. The Rock Island Arsenal Museum is the Army's second oldest museum. It first opened to the public on July 4, 1905. The primary mission is to collect, preserve, and interpret the history of Rock Island Arsenal and Arsenal Island. By focusing on "People, Processes, and Products," the exhibits tell the story of the people involved in Arsenal Island's history, the manufacturing processes used at Rock Island Arsenal, and the military equipment that was produced at Rock Island Arsenal. The Rock Island Arsenal Museum is nationally recognized for its large and impressive small arms collection. More than 1,200 U.S., foreign, civilian, and military small arms are on permanent display.

This Week in Rock Island Arsenal History – April 18-24

On April 19, 1960, the Quad-Cities Home Builder's Association offered to renovate the Col. George Davenport Home. On April 19, 1864, the U.S. Congress passed an Act that instructed the U.S. Government to obtain possession of and title to property on Rock Island that was held or controlled by private interests. The Secretary of War was authorized to hold full, complete, and permanent possession of "all the lands, and shores of the island of Rock Island." The Secretary of War was further instructed to hold and keep Rock Island as a military reservation for the purpose of building an arsenal for the construction, deposit, and repair of arms and munition of war, and such other military establishments as authorized by law. The Act also provided for a board of commissioners to hear and settle the land claims of private parties. On April 20, 1864, the cornerstone of the first permanent Arsenal building, later known as the Clock Tower, was laid. On April 21, 1882, the RIA procured a power press for punching and drawing metal used for manufacturing tin meat cans, tin cups, 'and' other metal items. On April 21, 1856, the first locomotive crossed the Mississippi River via the railroad bridge from Rock Island to Davenport - the first bridge across the river. On April 22, 1898, the Equipment Department began working two 10-hour shifts, daily.

Performance Triad Builds Momentum, Edges Closer To Army-Wide Roll Out

Getting Soldiers the proper equipment to fight the nation's wars takes considerable time and effort. The same is true when it comes to equipping them for the Performance Triad program, which continues to push toward an Army-wide roll out. If the program sounds familiar, it's because Army Medicine's Performance Triad first launched as pilot in 2013 and continues to usher a groundswell of health culture change by providing a wealth of resources to boost military readiness and family well being. With a prolific web and social media presence, this science-backed program takes its namesake from the triad of sleep, activity and nutrition, and is considered the foundation of a ready and resilient modern force. Bringing the program to the masses, however, is a multi-phased and time-intensive process. "From a science perspective, the Performance Triad is packed full of the best science," said Col. Deydre Teyhen, director of health and wellness for the Army surgeon general and the lead for Performance Triad in Falls Church, Va. "As we get ready to roll this out Army wide, what we need to learn is what units are doing to make the program effective. We can take those best practices and roll it out to all units as we go Army wide." In other words, the pilot is not about proof of concept. Instead, it aims to determine the best approach for instituting a cultural lifestyle change of sizeable magnitude. To that end, Fort Campbell's 2nd Brigade Combat Team, 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault), is one of five brigades across the Army currently under observation in the pilot program. The pilot itself includes multiple components, Teyhen explained in November, while working with troops at Fort Campbell. (More)

Notes for Veterans

Veterans Preference to Get Hill Attention

The House Veterans Affairs Committee has scheduled for next week a rare oversight hearing on veterans preference in federal employment, the sort of hearing that in the past has raised criticisms that agencies are failing to follow their obligations under the law—for example by revoking vacancy announcements when the only referred candidates are veterans. However, concerns about over-reliance have been raised as well. For example, MSPB has questioned whether the emphasis on preference undercuts the merit principle of open competition for career civil service jobs. It also has noted a side effect, slightly reducing the percentage of women in the federal workforce since four-fifths of veterans are male. Hiring of veterans has been a focus of both the Bush and Obama administrations. According to the latest data, released last summer and covering 2014, veterans account for 30.8 percent of the federal workforce, up from 26.3 percent in 2010. Agencies with notably high percentages of veterans in their workforces included the military services—Air Force, 56.9 percent; Army, 49.7; Navy, 42.7—as well as Transportation, 36.4 percent, the VA, 32.9, and Justice, 28.2. At the lower end were HHS, 7.2, and EPA, 8. Of the 180,562 persons hired by the government in 2014, 599,992 had veteran status, 33.2 percent. That compares to 72,133 of the 281,651 hired in 2010, 25.6 percent. Two laws that create special paths into federal employment, the Veterans Employment Opportunities Act and the Veterans Recruitment Act, accounted for only about 19,000 of the hires, while the separate authority for those with disabilities of 30 percent or more accounted for fewer than 2,000. Several other authorities, for relatives of current or former military personnel, made up only tiny percentages. (More)
